This classified bibliography on South Asia and similar bibliographies on Africa south of the Sahara (LI 000 882) and East Asia (LI 000 881) have been compiled under the first phase of a three-year cooperative project to strengthen bibliographical resources for undergraduate libraries on "neglected" foreign areas. The bibliography in its present form is a preliminary edition to be circulated for criticism and comment to interested scholars and librarians. The final version, to be published under the second phase of the project, will incorporate comments and criticisms received. The material included in this bibliography was collated from standard bibliographies on the subject and various syllabi and reading lists distributed by the Foreign Area Materials Center. Although it was not possible to ascertain whether books published abroad were still in print, the American publications were checked against R.R. Bowker's "Books in Print, 1966," and reprints and material in microform are indicated. Appended are a list of microfilm companies and their addresses and a note on the Foreign Area Materials Center. PREFACE

If libraries are the cornerstone of academic endeavor, it follows that no language and area study program can be effective without adequate library resources for student reading and faculty research. Undergraduate library collections on "neglected" foreign areas are woefully inadequate - a circumstance amply reflected in recent studies and surveys. The Association of American Colleges study, Non-Western Studies in the Liberal Arts College (1964), for example, concluded that:

After faculty, if not before, the most essential resource of a college is teaching materials. For the humanities and the social sciences, which embrace all courses normally embodied in a non-Western program, this means, above all, books and periodicals. Our inquiry shows that library facilities reveal as serious deficiencies as do faculties for the purpose of non-Western studies. With a few exceptions, even among the colleges that have already made a start on a non-Western program, libraries are woefully inadequate for student reading, let alone further study on the part of the faculty. The cost of filling the gaps will be high... at the same time economy dictates careful discrimination in the choice of items. This may well be beyond the capacity of the average college librarian with no training in non-Western fields. Outside advice will almost always be needed....

In addition, as the interest in foreign area studies grows, more libraries are buying the same basic works and even recently published books tend to go out-of-print fairly rapidly. In discussing the acquisitions program of the Trevor Arnett Library of the Atlanta University Center for the year 1963-64, the same survey states:

These figures reflect another difficulty, which is that many important works, including some published fairly recently, are out-of-print and hard to obtain. For example, even in the case of books on China, which in turn are probably more plentiful than those on India, which in turn are probably more numerous than those on Africa, the Atlanta program ordered over 700 publications but actually acquired just over 400....

The Center for International Programs and Services of the State Education Department, University of the State of New York, under the auspices of which this bibliography was compiled, has a special concern with the problem of library resources on foreign areas. The need for such resources in New York State has been accentuated by recent activities of the Center. A number of modest matching grants to colleges have been made out of funds received from private foundations in support of different aspects of the Center's programs in undergraduate education to secure basic library materials in Asian and African studies, but frequently the desired works have not been available. There are, furthermore, more than 80 institutions in New York, faculty of which have participated in various seminars, faculty research, and fellowship programs organized by the Center for International Programs and Services. The faculty members involved in such programs customarily request library acquisitions on the basis of bibliographic guidance offered in the programs - only again to be disappointed because the books are not in print or cannot be found.

The bibliography which follows is one step in meeting the needs described in the preceding paragraphs. In its final form, this bibliography and the others being compiled under the same project - graded as to relative degree of essentiality for undergraduate studies, keyed to critical reviews in the journals, and with notes on availability in print or microform - should be of substantial help to college librarians in strengthening their holdings of material on areas of the world outside the perimeters of Western civilization.

This bibliography on South Asia, similar bibliographies on Africa south of the Sahara and East Asia, and a guide to reference works on the world beyond Europe have been compiled under the first phase of a three-year cooperative project to strengthen bibliographical resources for undergraduate libraries on "neglected" foreign areas. The project is supported by a contract with the U.S. Office of Education, Department of Health, Education, and Welfare, which has an active concern with encouraging international studies in American colleges and universities.

The bibliography in its present form is a preliminary edition to be circulated for criticism and comment to interested scholars and librarians. The final version, to be published in early summer, 1969, under the second phase of the project, will incorporate comments and criticisms received. It will also be more selective and titles will be graded as to their significance. Entries in the final edition will be keyed to annotations in other bibliographies and to reviews in selected scholarly journals.

The material included in this bibliography was collated from the following bibliographies: American Universities Field Staff, A Select Bibliography Asia, Africa, Eastern Europe, Latin America (1960), and Supplements 1961, 1963, 1965; J. Michael Mahar, India: A Critical Bibliography (1964); Maureen L. P. Patterson and Ronald B. Inden, South Asia: An Introductory Bibliography (1962); Joseph Elder, ed., Civilization of India Syllabus (1965); reviews in Choice and The Journal of Asian Studies through August, 1967, and various syllabi and reading lists distributed by the Foreign Area Materials Center. Information lacking in this version, such as number of pages and Library of Congress numbers, will be cited for all entries in the final version. Although every effort has been made to avoid duplicate entries, some may appear in this preliminary edition. This will be corrected in the final version, as will any errors in alphabetizing.

Because of the limitations of time and distance, it was not possible to ascertain whether books published abroad were still in print. The source used for checking American publications was R. R. Bowker's Books in Print, USA, 1966. Reprints are indicated by (R) at the end of the entry; in most cases, the original publisher and date have been given. Material in microform is indicated by (M) followed by the microfilmer's name. A list of microfilm companies and their addresses appears at the end of the bibliography.

Without the generous assistance of numerous individuals, compilation of this bibliography would not have been possible. The library panel of advisers for the program - Anne C. Edmonds, Mt. Holyoke College, Nancy Devine, Mt. Holyoke College, Dorothy Drake, Scripps College; and Evan Ira Farber, Earlham College - has provided invaluable counsel. Stephen N. Hay, University of California at Santa Barbara, has served as Area Editor for this bibliography and has given much needed guidance. J. Michael Mahar of the University of Arizona generously loaned the project the draft entries for the revised edition of India: A Critical Bibliography, thereby enabling the staff to up-date and correct a large number of entries. Advice on the computerized aspects of the project was provided by Stephen Mitchell, Syracuse University; Mrs. Lynda Sloan, Project URBANDOC; Barbara Gill and Robert S. Tucker of IBM Datatext; and Gary Brown of Commercial Programming Unlimited. The day to day computer operations of the project were greatly assisted by the patience and understanding of Les Flynn and his staff at Data-text Operations who spent many hours over the past few months in assisting with any problem, large or small, that arose.

Miss Lois Brown and Miss Joan Ells of the Foreign Area Materials Center staff played a large role in typing most of the material, checking for out-of-print books, and other tedious and time-consuming tasks. Their involvement went well beyond the normal call of duty.

Edith Ehrman, Manager of the Center, supervised the day-to-day operations of the Project and was responsible for the editing, as well as arrangements for the use of the computers and seeing the final manuscript through the press. She more than anyone else is responsible for whatever accomplishment this undertaking represents.

Hyman Kublin was Acting Director of the Project during my absence in India during the 1966-67 year.

The entire project is being undertaken by the Foreign Area Materials Center, an undertaking of the Center for International Programs and Services which is concerned with strengthening teaching about about foreign areas, mainly at the undergraduate level. The work of the Foreign Area Materials Center is also sponsored by the National Council for Foreign Area Materials, a group of eleven regional college associations and consortia. The work of the Foreign Area Materials Center is described in a brief note which appears at the conclusion of this guide.

A NOTE ON THE FOREIGN AREA MATERIALS CENTER

The State Education Department in New York is actively concerned with strengthening opportunities and resources for the study of foreign areas in the schools, colleges, and universities of New York, as well as with related activities in educational exchange and overseas service. Emphasis is being placed on the peoples, cultures, and contemporary institutions of those areas traditionally neglected in American education--namely, Asia, Africa, Latin America, Russia and Eastern Europe.

Recent efforts of the Department in foreign area studies include faculty fellowships and seminars; and programs of independent reading and seminar discussion, summer institutes, and other opportunities for secondary school teachers; consultant services to schools, colleges, and universities in developing foreign area studies; and experimental programs in the study of critical languages in schools and colleges, summer field work overseas for students and teachers, and the like.

As a further extension of these efforts to strengthen foreign area studies, the State Education Department established, in December, 1963, the Foreign Area Materials Center. In March, 1967, because of increasing interest in the Center's work from institutions outside New York State, the National Council for Foreign Area Materials, a group of eleven regional college associations and consortia, was established and has become an active sponsor of the Center's work. The Center, which is located in New York City, is concerned with the development of materials useful in teaching about foreign areas, mainly at the undergraduate level.

Types of materials which have been produced or are in preparation include color slides in South Asian studies, reproductions of museum materials from India, reviews of documentary films on foreign areas, and bibliographies of paperback books, records, and the like. The Center provides liaison with publishers and other organizations producing materials useful in undergraduate instruction and is particularly concerned with out-of-print books and other needs of college libraries. These activities are being supported by grants from foundation sources, the United States government, and the National Council for Foreign Area Materials.

The Center also distributes various types of syllabi and reprints, bibliographies and similar materials to college faculty members offering courses related to the Center's main areas of interest--Asia, Africa, Latin America, Russia and Eastern Europe. A list of materials is available on request.

The Foreign Area Materials Center is under the direction of Ward Morehouse, Director, and Authur Osteen, Associate Director, Center for International Programs and Services. The Manager of the Foreign Area Materials Center in New York City is Miss Edith Ehrman.

Correspondence regarding any of the activities mentioned above and requests for materials should be directed to the Foreign Area Materials Center (33 West 42nd Street, New York, 10036). Correspondence concerning other aspects of the Department's programs in foreign area studies and related international activities should be sent to the Director, Center for International Programs and Services, University of the State of New York, State Education Department, Albany, N.Y. 12224.
